

Where Divinity Touches The Human

Five Day Non-Residential Meditation Retreat in Eugene, Oregon

Wednesday, July 24 - Sunday, July 28, 2019

Join us as we put our so-called “life” on hold and we slow down to explore moment by moment this experience called me and my world. What is really going on? Are we a doomed and separate human entity or do we have a larger connection to a wholeness that underlies and permeates our experience. There is no question or concern that is too unworthy to be addressed. Often the most deeply rooted problems are our gateway to the Love that we all are. Through this process Tom holds a sweet tender kindness that makes many who work with him feel held and safe. Within this supportive framework our full humanness is embraced and touched. As we radically accept and meet the worst of the worst, a gentle piercing happens as the entirety of our human experience melts in Divinity’s all embracing arms, this ever present Love. We see that we are that Love, this sweetness that unconditionally holds our humanness and has nothing to prove other than being Itself.

Retreat Schedule:

Wednesday, Thursday & Friday Evening: 7:00 to 9:00 p.m.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday & Sunday Mornings: 9:30 a.m to 12:30 p.m.

Saturday Evening 5:00 to 7:30 p.m.

Retreat Cost: $165 suggested donation or $25 per session if attending part time.

For more information call 541-687-6793.

About Tom

In 2000, after a lifelong battle trying to hold onto his false sense of a separate self, Tom’s fight against Reality spontaneously ended, resulting in a shift into unitive consciousness or Being. Tom is known for his humility and a profound acceptance of what is. The guidance moving through him has flavors of Advaita Vedanta, Sufism, Buddhism and, most importantly, an ongoing revelation of living in the moment. Website: tomkurzka.org.